Pamela McKinley, Product Manager, Bank of America Merchant Services

Pamela McKinley is a Product Manager for Bank of America Merchant Services.

She has worked in the payments industry for 21 years. She has developed and managed all types of products and strategies from PC products, e-commerce products, mobile products, exception processing products as well as reporting products. She's passionate about seeing a product come to life.

Pam has been a Wnet member since 2010, when she came to the organization via her former boss and mentor, Chris Lee. She originally joined Wnet to network and collaborate with dynamic women in the payments industry. Pam is actively involved in Wnet through the Marketing Committee and the Website Committee; she is also one of the women who started the Louisville LINC chapter — a group of women that have taken her experience in Wnet to next level.

“The greatest benefit of being in Wnet has been the relationships I've made with the ladies in Wnet. My advice to other Wnet members is to get involved. Wnet is what you make of it. You can sit back and watch everything happen around you, or you can get involved – volunteer!”
